Thank you for your letter of 12 November 1953, forwarding the employment record of [redacted]

[redacted] recently applied directly to the Agency for employment, and on 27 October we informed him that we did not have any vacancies for him at present.
However, when [redacted] returns to the United States, we would be happy to interview him to see if there were any vacancies at that time for which he might be qualified.
As you know, we are doing very little hiring in the professional category at present, and I do not foresee much change in that picture.

With kindest regards,

Sincerely,

Allen W. Dulles
